

Real life superheroes are all around us, in our homes and communities. They are saving lives, helping people and doing good things. Can you think of a real life superhero? Someone who has helped you or done something kind for you, your family or the whole community. Talk about this person with someone at home and draw them below. Be ready to share your real life superhero in our well-being lesson this afternoon.