DAILY OBSERVER

Timmy's trapped trauma!

Yesterday, local boy, Timmy Johnson was pulled from the rubble of his ruined home in Arduncliffe after the nightly onslaught from the German Luftwaffe.

Timmy Johnson (aged 9) was discovered early in the morning by a local post man, John Danvers, beginning his early morning rounds.

After hearing several muffled pleas for help coming from the rubble on Lane Road, Danvers investigated the sight and realised someone was buried underneath. Instinctively, he called for help; several neighbours came rushing to his aid to help to dig the poor boy out.

Emergencies services (including the fire brigade and the ambulance team) quickly arrived on the scene- they were already busy in the area as several homes had been hit in the Blitz bombing from the night before.

After several hours of careful removal of dangerous debris, Timmy was lifted from the wreckage of his home and taken the nearest hospital.

An eye witness at the scene claimed, "My heart stopped when I realised there was a poor little mite under all that dreadful mess. Them Germans have got a lot to answer for. He's blooming lucky to have survived! Dirty and ragged as anything when he came out he was. Just hope he's not the only one to have survived!"

It is not known at this time if any members of the Johnson family survived the attack or had reached the safety of the nearest shelter. Anyone with information is urged to come forward.
